

EFCA Sector Review 2023 Survey (website)

European Federation of Engineering Consultancy Associations

As part of the EFCA Sector Review for 2023, the EFCA Sector Review 2023 Survey provides rankings based on the turnover of the top companies and groups operating in Europe that supply engineering services for construction and the built environment.

The EFCA Sector Review 2023 to be published in early-2024 will include lists ranking the top companies and groups operating in Europe that provide engineering services for construction and the built environment.

All companies and groups for which the provision of these services represents more than approximately 50% of the turnover earned in Europe will be considered by EFCA for inclusion in the rankings. Normally companies and groups with more than about 200 staff based in Europe which provide these services will be considered.

Responding to the survey is extremely important: it will help EFCA highlight accurately the depth, breadth and strategic importance of the engineering services industry and its capacity to respond to the interlinked climate and energy crises.

For a single point of contact, groups based either outside Europe or based inside Europe and operating in more than one country in Europe are assigned to a specific country (see list).

If you are not responsible for operations in Europe, please forward information about the survey to your headquarters for Europe.

Please contact the EFCA Survey Coordinator (peter@peterboswell.com) if you wish to know if your company or group has already completed the survey questionnaire.

Or simply complete and submit the questionnaire. EFCA will determine if your submission duplicates or replaces another submission.

Please complete and submit a questionnaire by 31 January 2024.

An offline data form (PDF) is available. Please return to peter@peterboswell.com by 31 January 2021 .
